Non Fiction:

Talking History: 150 years of world-changing speeches by Joan Lennon and Joan Dritsas Haig

16 engaging speakers and their speeches, chosen from a diverse range of backgrounds and periods in history, are profiled in this accessible and immersive graphic novel style text. Including Emmeline Pankhurst, Abraham Lincoln, Nelson Mandela, Greta Thunberg and Funmilayo Ransome-Kuti, each double-page spread includes speeches, background history and biographical detail in this text that's perfect for upper KS2

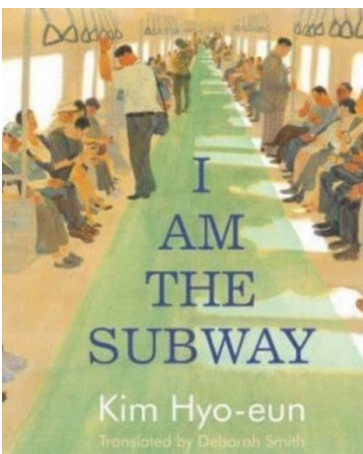

Fiction:

Jummy at the River School by Sabine Adebayinka

Jummy is looking forward to starting at a prestigious boarding school in Southern Nigeria, but her hope is tinged with sadness, as her best friend Caro was not given a place. But as Jummy is settling in and making new friends, Caro arrives unexpectedly – not as a student – but as a servant. This lively first-person portrayal of boarding school life, friendships and fast-moving fun will appeal to independent readers in KS2. Teachers will find this text a useful example of autobiographical and recount writing for UKS2 classes, and also for the vivid narrative and cultural comparison to school life in the UK.

Picture book:

I Am the Subway by Kim Hyo-eun and Deborah Smith

This stunningly illustrated picture book plunges the reader into the cut and thrust world of a city subway, describing not just the sights, sounds and atmosphere, but delicately peeking into the lives and feelings of the passengers on board. A work of art, this is a book to be treasured by children of all ages
